

Family Nurse Practitioner or Adult Gerontology Nurse Practitioner Faculty

The School of Nursing at Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey provides unique opportunities in teaching, scholarship, clinical practice, and multidisciplinary collaboration within a world-class research university.

Innovative academic offerings include bachelor's, master's, post-master's, DNP and PhD programs that are preparing nurse leaders of today and tomorrow at campus locations in Newark, New Brunswick, and Blackwood, NJ.

The selected Family Nurse Practitioner or Adult Gerontology Nurse Practitioner will join our Advanced Practice Nursing Education Division. The position will be based in Newark, NJ. Rank, track, and salary will be commensurate with qualifications and overall accomplishments.

Required Qualifications:

- Doctoral Degree in Nursing or related discipline.
- Current licensure or eligibility for RN licensure in New Jersey.
- Certified for advance practice in New Jersey.
- National certification and current clinical experience as Family or Adult Gerontology NP.
- Strong teaching background.

Additional Qualifications:

Candidates with experience teaching pharmacology, pathophysiology, and data management will be given priority. Preference will also be given to candidates who demonstrate scholarship (e.g., publications, national presentations, grant funding), and active participation in community and/or professional organizations.

To Apply: Please email a Letter of Interest and current CV to:

Johanna Stephenson, MLER
Director, Faculty and Staff Resources
sn\_faculty@sn.rutgers.edu

Please indicate the job title in the subject line of your emails.

Applicants who are invited for an interview will be requested to submit two letters of recommendation.