

Protocol and Resources for Faculty and Staff When Responding to a Disclosure of a Sexual Assault by a Student

Protocol

1. First and foremost, ensure the immediate safety of the student. If the student is in immediate danger or immediate need of medical attention, and agrees to seek medical attention, or if the assault presents an immediate danger to the University community (attack by a stranger on-campus, use of a weapon, attack by multiple assailants), contact the campus police or the local police (see Resources). Victims who agree to seek medical treatment will be encouraged to go to the hospital without showering, cleaning up, or changing clothes, as doing these things could destroy evidence.

- SANE/SART programs and Sexual Violence Hotlines are also sources for immediate assistance (see Resources).
- Make it clear to the student that their contact with you will not require them to pursue any type of formal institutional or criminal action nor will it require the reporting person to identify the victim or the alleged perpetrator.
- A victim may choose not to seek medical help, counseling or legal help – his/her decision should be respected.
- Whether or not to report the assault is the victim's decision. There are many reasons a victim may decide not to report an assault – guilt, shame, fear of retaliation, reluctance to repeat details to police, etc.
- As an employee, your job is not to act as a counselor or to assess or define the assault, or to determine whether or not the assault actually occurred, but to refer the person to personnel that are trained to help victims of sexual assault (see Resources). A victim's major decision points are:
 - Whether or not to seek medical attention;
 - Whether or not to contact the police;
 - Whether or not to seek prosecution;
 - Whether or not to bring charges through University policies;
 - Sharing the details with family, friends and other immediate support systems;
 - Seeking professional counseling/therapy.

2. Make the student aware of counseling and advocacy services and options for help such as Sexual Violence Hotlines, Student Wellness, Student Health Services (see Resources).

3. Inform the student of his/her rights as a victim of sexual assault. Notifying the police does not require the victim to pursue criminal prosecution or institutional disciplinary action. Rights include:

- Contacting Public Safety to file criminal charges or report any issue regarding physical security, or contacting local police;
- Filing civil charges through the courts;
- Independent of filing criminal or civil charges, pursuing charges through University policies (see Resources), if the alleged assailant is part of the Rutgers community.
- Deciding to file no charges;
- Rights as outlined in the Campus Sexual Assault Bill of Rights (see Resources).

4. Helpful Responses when Communicating with a Victim of Sexual Assault:

- Listen without interrupting. Encourage the student to take his/her time, if necessary.
- Don't panic. Remain calm and concerned.
- Respect the language the student uses to identify what's happened.
- Understand that individuals from different cultural backgrounds may express or experience their reactions to an assault in different ways.
- Allow for tears and expression of feelings.
- Validate the student's experiences or reactions.
- Believe and support the student.
- Acknowledge courage and discomfort.
- Remind the student that he/she is not at fault.
- Help the student identify safe individuals within his/her existing support system.
- Encourage the student to seek medical attention and/or counseling.
- Allow the student to make his/her own decisions.
- Ask what you can do to be supportive.
- Provide resources and options.

Unhelpful Responses:

- Asking "why" questions or other questions that might imply blame.
(i.e. "Why didn't you yell," "What were you doing there?")
- Blaming or judging the student's actions.
(i.e. "You shouldn't have had so much to drink")
- Dismissing the student's feelings or minimizing his/her experience.
(i.e. "You should just forget about it")
- Trying to "fix" the problem.
(i.e. pressuring them to report and/or telling them what to do)

Above all, do no harm. Sometimes, when individuals feel overwhelmed by just having heard someone's story, people feel "pressured" to do something. When this occurs, oftentimes people unintentionally say things that could be hurtful. You don't have to say anything.

Campus Sexual Assault Bill of Rights (Pursuant to NJSA 18A, Chapter 61E)

Introduction

A college or university in a free society must be devoted to the pursuit of truth and knowledge through reason and open communication among its members. Academic communities acknowledge the necessity of being intellectually stimulating where the diversity of ideas is valued. Its rules must be conceived for the purpose of furthering and protecting the rights of all members of the university community in achieving these ends.

Applicable state and federal laws and institutional rules and regulations governing interpersonal behavior limit the boundaries of personal freedom. In creating a community free from violence, sexual assault and non-consensual sexual contact, respect for the individual and human dignity are of paramount importance.

The State of New Jersey recognizes that the impact of violence on its victims and the surrounding community can be severe and long lasting. Thus, it has established this Bill of Rights to articulate requirements for policies, procedures and services designed to insure that the needs of victims are met and that the colleges and universities in New Jersey create and maintain communities that support human dignity.

The campus sexual assault victim's Bill of Rights was adopted by the New Jersey Commission on Higher Education and enacted by the State of New Jersey, effective September 1, 1995.

Bill of Rights

The following Rights shall be accorded to victims of sexual assault that occur:

- On the campus of any public or independent institution of higher education in the state of New Jersey, and
- Where the victim or alleged perpetrator is a student at that institution, and/or;
- When the victim is a student involved in an off-campus sexual assault.

Human Dignity Rights

- To be free from any suggestion that victims must report the crimes to be assured of any other right guaranteed under this policy;
- To have any allegations of sexual assault treated seriously; the right to be treated with dignity;
- To be free from any suggestion that victims are responsible for the commission of crimes against them;
- To be free from any pressure from campus personnel to:
- Report crimes if the victim does not wish to do so;
- Report crimes as lesser offenses than the victim perceives the crime to be;
- Refrain from reporting crimes;
- Refrain from reporting crimes to avoid unwanted personal publicity.

Rights to Resources on and Off Campus

- To be notified of existing campus and community based medical, counseling, mental health and student services for victims of sexual assault whether or not the crime is formally reported to campus or civil authorities;
- To have access to campus counseling under the same terms and conditions as apply to other students in their institution seeking such counseling;

To be informed of and assisted in exercising:

- Any rights to confidential or anonymous testing for sexually transmitted diseases, human immunodeficiency virus, and/or pregnancy;
- Any rights that may be provided by law to compel and disclose the results of testing of sexual assault suspects for communicable diseases.

Campus Judicial Rights

- To be afforded the same access to legal assistance as the accused;
- To be afforded the same opportunity to have others present during any campus disciplinary proceeding that is allowed the accused;
- To be notified of the outcome of the sexual assault disciplinary proceeding against the accused.

Legal Rights

- To have any allegation of sexual assault investigated and adjudicated by the appropriate criminal and civil authorities of the jurisdiction in which the sexual assault is reported;
- To receive full and prompt cooperation and assistance of campus personnel in notifying the proper authorities;
- To receive full, prompt, and victim-sensitive cooperation of campus personnel with regard to obtaining, securing, and maintaining evidence, including a medical examination when it is necessary to preserve evidence of the assault.

Campus Intervention Rights

- To require campus personnel to take reasonable and necessary actions to prevent further unwanted contact of victims by their alleged assailants;
- To be notified of the options for and provided assistance in changing academic and living situations if such changes are reasonably available.

Types of Assaults

Simple Assault: The attempt to cause or purposely, knowingly, or recklessly causing bodily injury to another.

Aggravated Assault: An attack by one person upon another, in which the offender causes or attempts to cause severe bodily injury, or uses or displays a weapon.

Harassment: A course of alarming conduct or of repeatedly committed acts with purpose to alarm or seriously annoy an individual.

Domestic Violence: Emotional, psychological, physical, sexual, or economic abuse that one person in an intimate relationship uses in order to control the other.

Sexual Assault: Sexual penetration; meaning "vaginal intercourse, cunnilingus, fellatio or anal intercourse between persons or the insertion of a hand, finger or other object in the anus or vagina by either the actor or upon the actor's instruction. The depth of insertion shall not be relevant" (NJSA 2C:14-1).

Criminal Sexual Contact: "Intentional, non-consensual touching by the victim or actor, either directly or through clothing, of a victim's or actor's sexual organs, genital area, anal area, inner thigh, groin, buttock or breast, for the purpose of degrading or humiliating the victim or sexually arousing or sexually gratifying the actor" (NJSA 2C:14-3).
